Battle Ship Texas.

More Startling Rumors About Its Construction.

THE DEFECTS INEXCUSABLE.

Errors Made in the Calculation Which, if not Remedied, will Make the Vessel Inappropriate for Warfare—Other News from the National Capitol.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The conundrum when will battle ship Texas float, is perplexing naval officers just now. All naval officers generally quite reticent when asked to express an opinion without the matter. One official stated within his own circle of friends that it was a known fact that the most inexcusable error had been made in the calculations and that the Texas would be worse than a useless vessel even if considerable modified to avoid the present defects.

The authority places the blame largely upon the board, consisting of officers and civilians by whom the plan of the Texas was adopted. This board was composed of Commodore Ramsey, Lieut Knox, Chief Engineer Kiersted, Assistant Constructor Bowles, Mr. Burges and Mr. Wilson, the two latter being civilians. According to this official the board was not expert in the subjects which should have been considered. One was a commodore, another a lieutenant, another a chief engineer and Assistant Constructor Bowles was the single naval officer on the board who could be expected to be familiar with all the details of construction. Of the two civilian members of the board Mr. Burgess was a yacht builder, while Mr. Wilson was an engine builder in the employe of the Cramps

The board, he says, was thus practically compelled to accept the calculations of the designers as being correct, whereas a board of experts in construction could, by a comparative method determine in a brief time just what the displacement of Texas would be if built and armed according to the specifications. The department has a great deal of information on the subject of displacement, and by comparing a new design with something of same character already built an approximate result can be reached without the necessity of an extensive mathematical calculation. Had two or three members of the board been expert on this subject they would have discovered defect in the design of the Texas almost at once. As it was the board swallowed everything that the designers presented, and paid little attention to verifying anything

Their decision was made when only a week's study had been given to the design of Texas. This of itself, he says is convincing that they took the statement of designers for granted. "There is no question" said he, "but what congress will investigate this Texas business at an early date. So much money has been expended that congress will not let it be buried out of sight. If the money has been thrown away somebody will have to be held responsible for it. When that investigation takes place you will learn more in a week what is the matter with Texas than would be disclosed by this department in six months."

Will Meet in Chicago.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The commission recently appointed by Postmaster-General Wanamaker to investigate the workings of the Chicago post office with a view to extending and improving, the service there will meet in that city Friday of this week. First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson, chairman of the commission will leave Washington for Chicago in a day or two.

Misuse of Mails and Robbery.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Chief Postoffice Inspector Rathbone has received a telegram announcing the arrest of S J. Clark, of Wiscoy, Minn., for using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

A telegram received at the postoffice department from Boyd. Wis., stated that the postoffice at that place was robbed last night and $57 in postage stamps taken.

Does Not Want to Be Responsible.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—A rumor is current in the navy department that Assistant Naval Constructor Bowles, who is on the board having in charge the building of the cruiser Texas, has asked to be relieved from duty on the board. Acting Secretary of the Navy Walker, has no information on the subject.

Secretary Tichenor's Condition.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Assistant Secretary Batcheller spent Sunday at Luray, Va., with Assistant Secretary Tichenor. He says Mr. Tichenor's condition is about the same as it has been for some time past. One day he is able to sit up and the next day he is so unwell as to be confined to his bed.

No One Responsible.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The coroner's jury in the case of the several victims of the recent fire at 305 Seventh avenue has rendered a verdict that the cause of the fire was unknown. They exonerated Restaurant Keeper Snyder, who had been under a strong suspicion and he was released from custody.

Solicitor Hart Leaves for Washington.

HILLSBORO, O., Aug. 27.—Hon. Alfonso Hart, recently appointed solicitor of the internal revenue department, took his departure yesterday for Washington, where, on Monday next, he will assume the duties of the position.

Drowned While Bathing.

SEA VIEW, Miss., Aug. 27.—E. H. Bowman, of Chicago, a guest at a hotel here, was drowned at 11 o'clock yesterday while bathing. The body has not yet been recovered.

THE FIELD CASE.

Terry's Slayer Will Probably Be Tried in the State Courts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—District Attorney White of San Joaquin who left Stockton in order to evade delivery of the state attorney's letter authorizing him to dismiss proceedings against Justice Field, was expected here last night. The letter now lies in the Stockton postoffice and counsel for Judge Field say that if White does not get it they will have the case taken out of his hands. The friends of White say he is justified in the course he is pursuing, by the grave charges of conspiracy which Field brought against him last week in his legal traverse.

Sarah Althea Hill-Terry publishes a bitter letter denouncing Attorney-General Jackson for his interference.

Judge Sawyer, it is said, has grave doubts of the power of the federal courts to interfere with the Nagle case and that Terry's slayer will have to be tried in the state courts at Stockton. It is rumored that Terry's adherents will shoot him if he is taken back to Stockton. The attacks of Justice Field on Sarah Althea Hill-Terry and his evident desire to protect Nagle has somewhat turned the sentiment against Field.

Damage Done By a Cloud Burst.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug 26.—A cloudburst over Rockingham and vicinity destroyed the dams of the following mills at and near that place The Pee Dee and the Robert Dee, the Great Falls, the Midway and the Leo Betters. The machinery on the first floor of the Pee Dee and the Great Falls mills are considerably damaged, as is also the Midway building. The damage done is now estimated at $100,000. Five hundred hands are thrown out of employment. The railroad track of the Carolina road for fifteen miles is more or less torn up, and there are several washouts on the Palmetto road between Cherrow to Hamlet.

The Day with the President.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.—The Sun's special from Deer Park says: The president spent the working hours of the day with Private Secretary Halford and Miss Sanger, the stenographer, writing up the presidential correspondence, a large amount of what was disposed of. The president also read a number of public papers, but did not determine or dispose of any matter. Governor Jackson, Mrs Jackson, Senator and Mrs. Gorman called at the executive cottage and paid their respects to the president. In the afternoon President and Mrs. Harrison drove over to Oakland.

Coke Companies Selling Out.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 27.—It is reported on good authority and partially confirmed at Connellsville, that the H. C. Frick Coke company had about concluded negotiations with the Cambria Iron company for the purchase of the Wheeler plant of one hundred ovens, the Murell plant, with 400 ovens and the Mahoning plant with one hundred ovens. The reason given for the sale by the Cambria Iron company is that the latter has concluded that it can buy coke as cheaply as it can make the fuel.

Shrouded in Mystery.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 27.—The bodies of two unknown white men were found yesterday lying on the track of the Richmond and Danville road in East Durham. One of the bodies was terribly mangled, while the other bore no marks of even a bruise or scratch. The bodies were found near a large cotton factory. No one in the town could identify them and the mystery connected with the death of the two men is rendered more perplexing owing to the fact of the absence of any wounds on one of them.

Arrested for a Murderous Assault.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 27.—Mrs. Hamilton, wife of R. H. Hamilton, who is said to be the grandson of Alexander Hamilton, and son of Gen. Schuler Hamilton, of New York, was arrested yesterday for a murderous assault on her nurse girl, Mary O Donnell. She seriously cut the girl with a Mexican dagger. The latter is lying at the point of death, while Mrs. Hamilton is held without bail to await her injuries What led to the affray is not yet known. Mr. Hamilton is detained as a witness

Killed by a Falling Tree.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 27.—James A. Paramore, of St. Louis, a Yale sophomore aged 18, who was on a trip through the northwest with members of his family, was accidently killed while visiting a lumber camp, near Hot Springs, W. T. The other members of the party had gone into the woods, leaving James sitting on a stump. While they were absent he was caught by a falling tree, and his body horribly mangled.

Talmage En Route East.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug 27.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage preached Sunday to the largest audience ever gathered in this city to hear a sermon, and many persons were unable to gain admission to the tabernacle Dr. Talmage has started eastward and will stop at Des Moines and Omaha to deliver addresses at the state expositions of Iowa and Nebraska.

Short in His Accounts.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—A. J. Jackson, local agent of Thomas Cook & Sons, tourists expedition, confessed Saturday to Charles Stohis, an agent of the company that he was $3,600 short. Stohis came on to make an examination of Jackson's books. Jackson disappeared Saturday and is believed to have gone to Canada.

A St. Louis Sunday Blaze.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—The warehouse of the Joseph Haffner manufacturing company, on the corner of Dock and Main streets, was destroyed by fire Sunday afternoon. By hard work it was prevented from spreading. Loss $80,000. Several firemen were overcome by the heat, but no fatalities resulted.

The London Strikes.

It May Soon Reach Enormous Proportions.

ITS EFFECT UPON BUSINESS.

London Entirely Cut Off from the Outside World as Far as Water Communication is Concerned—Trial of William O'Brien. Other Dispatches from Over the Atlantic Cable.

LONDON, Aug 27.—London is an inland town and promises to remain so for some time to come. All communication from the rest of the world by water is as completely cut off as though the Thames had dried up and been turned into a garden farm The great ships lying at the docks can neither load nor recharge their cargoes, and the immense traffic of the greatest city of the world lies at the mercy of the men commercially rated at $1 a day. Up to the present the dock labors have been regarded by the populace not without interest, but with that languid interest which is felt in affairs which concern other people and not ourselves.

But this is all over and to-day the strike and its consequences touch every man, woman and child in this great city. No meat arrived in London yesterday. The markets in Mark Lane are paralyzed and maize advanced five shillings the quarter for immediate use To day the city was thrown into a fever of excitement when the coal handlers struck and it was announced that the gas stokers intended to follow suit and leave the city in darkness tonight. The Electric Light companies were filled with orders from commercial houses who sought to avert such a calamity and they have largely increased their force. So far the gas stokers remain at work, but there is no telling what moment they will quit

Although the strikes so far include only a few industries not directly connected with transportation there is scarcely any important trade carried on in London in which there are not loud mutterings of discontent. The truth is that the workingmen have been taught by the dock laborers what an immense power for evil they hold in their hands and they are anxious to exercise it, if only to show their masters that they possess it. Strikes are talked of to-day where a week ago there was no thought of a grievance and there is a general conviction that an end is not yet.

The coal porters have joined the strike. Another conference was held yesterday between the managers of the docks and the laborers' delegates, but no agreement was reached. Arbitration of their differences was again proposed by the representatives of the strikers, but the employers refused to listen to any proposal to submit their case to the hands of third parties for decision.

The committee of the striking dock labors has been appealed to by the owners of the large quantities of perishable property on board vessels at the docks to permit such articles to be unloaded. The committee to this request gave a peremptory refusal

On account of the strike among the coal handlers, coal ye today was advanced on price just 100 per cent

The many biscuit factories all over the city have been compelled to stop for want of flour.

Trial of William O'Brien.

CORK, Aug. 27. The trial of William O'Brien and Mr James Gilhooly, members of parliament, on the charge of speaking at a proclaimed meeting at Clonakilty was concluded yesterday. Mr O'Brien was sentenced to two month's imprisonment and Mr. Gilhooly to six weeks, both without hard labor. At the expiration of these terms of sentence each must furnish bonds to keep the peace for six months, and in the event of their failing so to do, two months imprisonment additional is imposed upon each by the terms of the sentence.

Damaging Earthquakes.

ATHENS, Aug. 27.—Severe shocks of earthquake were felt throughout Greece yesterday, and serious damage is reported from several tows. In manys of the towns the inhabitants passed the night in the open air, feeling that their dwellings were unsafe. The greatest damage was done at Etalicon, where nearly half the houses were so much shaken up that they are no longer habitable.

Gladstone on the Bulgarian Atrocities.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Mr. Gladstone writes to The Daily News on the subject of the atrocities practiced by the Turks upon the Christians in Armenia. He comments that paper for bringing to light, some years ago, the facts about the Bulgarian atrocities and says: "We are entitled by treaty to demand that the sultan suppress these outrages and punish the guilty miscreants."

Secret Socialist Society.

VIENNA, Aug. 27. The police have unearthed a secret Socialist society extending all over the province of Galicia, with members among wealthy and influential citizens of many towns and cities. A large number of arrests followed the discovery, and among the prisoners are many lawyers and students besides quite a number of ladies.

A Long Swim.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The Swedish athlete Akiyi, gave an exhibition of his swimming in the River Marve at Charenton five miles from here to-day. He swam a distance of ten miles in nine hours. He undressed while swimming, also smoked cigars.

Corruption in the Navy.

BERLIN, Aug. 27. Further evidences of the corruption recently discovered in the imperial navy at Kiel, are brought to light daily. Several officials of high rank in the service were arrested in this city yesterday charged with complicity in the frauds.

Inspecting Fortifications.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 27.—Two engineer officers have been sent to Crete to inspect the various fortifications there, with a view of strengthening them against an attack in case of insurrection.

Thousands of People Homeless.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—Half the city of Dubno on the Irwa has been destroyed by fire. The loss is enormous, and thousands of people are rendered homeless.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.

Grand Army Men, Their Wives and Daughters Killed and Maugled.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—A special to The Evening Journal says: The vestibule train on the Santa Fe route, running between Kansas City and Chicago, met with a serious accident at Kinsman, a small station about fifteen miles north of here, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The train was heavily loaded with Grand Army veterans and their friends, bound for the Milwaukee encampment, and consisted of several extra coaches. By the spreading of the rails three coaches, two Pullman sleepers and the dining car were thrown from the track and down a steep embankment, a distance of probably forty feet.

Word was immediately telegraphed to this city for medical assistance, and a special train was sent at once with a dozen surgeons on board. The wrecker was also sent out to clear up the track. Those most seriously injured were brought to this city and taken to St. Mary's hospital, where their wounds were properly attended to.

In all there were probably fifty persons hurt, and though none were killed outright, the following are in a very dangerous condition:

Mrs. S. S. Dickerman, of Lawrence, Kan., chest and head badly cut.

Her little son, hurt about the back and face.

William R. Fish, Topeka, seriously, head injured.

Mrs. Fish, Topeka, head, back and arms.

S. F. Gould, Mulvane, Kan., back and face terribly cut.

Mrs. R. R. Tuckerman, Topeka, face badly cut and internally injured.

Mrs. Edward Audsley, lives near Carrollton, Mo., arm, head and back badly bruised and lacerated.

Mrs. George B. Peters, Emporia, head and face mashed and cut.

George Peters, Emporia, hurt about the chest and face; also internally injured.

Mrs. S. S. Johnson, Norfolk, Conn., badly hurt internally and head and face cut.

In addition to this, Ben Levy, of Streator, had his face cut and arm dislocated, but his injuries are not dangerous. The others are at the hospital, and the majority, it is feared, will die.

Three of the injured are reported to have since died, one of the three being Mrs. George Peters, of Emporia. Exact information is hard to obtain, the railroad authorities being extremely uncommunicative.

The accident was caused by the chair car, the third behind the engine, jumping from the track. It was ditched instantly, taking with it three sleepers behind. A rail was found projecting through the bottom of the chair car, and coming out through the side about three feet from the bottom. A man who was hunting in a field near by, and saw the accident occur, said the chair car jumped fully ten feet high, and landed in the ditch over one hundred feet from where it left the track.

The car was full of passengers, every seat being occupied, and the scene which ensued was intensely exciting. Mr. Robinson, of Mulvane, Kan., had just passed into the smoking room of the chair car, and when he felt the jar he clutched the lamp and held himself in position, thus escaping serious injury. He at once commenced to rescue those who were helpless, but the sight of bruised heads, broken limbs and streams of blood were to much for him, and he had to give up. Others soon came, however, and the sufferers were relieved as rapidly as possible.

The train was running at a high rate of speed, probably sixty miles an hour. The road-bed where the derailment occurred is in very bad condition, and probably the engine and two cars which passed over the loose rail bent it out of shape so as to cause it to catch where it did. The chair car and two of the sleepers are a total loss. It is believed that if the train had been of the ordinary pattern, instead of vestibuled, the loss of life would have been at least fifty.

A Pacific Cable.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—The chamber of commerce committee recently appointed to investigate the feasibility of laying an ocean cable from this point to Australia, has reported in favor of the project. The cost of the line from San Francisco to New Zealand by way of Honolulu and Tahiti is estimated at $10,000,000, and suggests that the United States government grant a subsidy for the purpose to the extent of guaranteeing three-per-cent bonds, to be issued by a company incorporated under the laws of the United States. They claim that the line will be a paying investment and will also materially reduce the cost of cabling to the Australian colonies.

Cherokee Strip Colonies.

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 27.—A meeting was held Sunday to organize a Cherokee strip colony, the object being to make an effort to open the strip to settlement. This is the sixth colony formed in the last few days, and as outlined the colonies will aim to increase as rapidly as possible in numbers and membership, and petition congress at it its next session to open the strip.

Stage Coach Robbed.

The Deed Done by a Lone Highwayman.

TWO MEN MORTALLY WOUNDED.

The Robber's Attempt Only Partially Successful—A Sheriff and His Posse in Hot Pursuit of the Robber, but with Little Prospect of Success.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 27.—The Tribune's Ashland, Wis., special says: Black Bart's most daring deeds in the mountain passes of California and Colorado were outdone by a lone highwayman who held up and robbed the stage that runs between Gogebic, on the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western road, just over the line in Michigan, and Gogebic Lake, a summer resort, where people of leisure from the greatest cities spend the dog days.

As the stage was running along at a lively gait through the dense forest, when within about two miles of the station, a lone highwayman jumped out in front of it, and pointing two big "navy" revolvers at the driver, commanded him, in good old western style, to throw up his hands, and extended the same order to the four passengers inside the coach, with the further provision that they "shell out" all the loose valuables and currency. One of the passengers went down in his pocket, but instead of bringing up his pocketbook, he clenched a pistol in his hand and began firing at the robber. Instead of being overcome by the suddenness of his intended victim's move, the robber returned the fire. The driver whipped up his horses into a mad run, but the aim of the robber was true.

D. Mackechar, of the First National bank, of Minneapolis, was shot through the cheek, and another bullet went through his leg. Another passenger named A. G. Fleichlein, of Ashland, was mortally wounded. He raised up in his seat as the horses were whipped away, just in time to receive a bullet in the legs. He fell forward and pitched over the side of the coach into the roadway. The stage horses continue to run and the wounded man was left to take his chances with the robber. The villain threatened to kill Fleichlein, but finally desisted after securing $35 and the victim's watch and chain. The wounded man lay bleeding in the road for three hours before any one courageous enough to go to his succor was secured. He was taken to a hospital at Bessemer, but loss of blood was so great as to blight all hope of recovery. Physicians say he cannot possibly live. Mackechar was taken to Eagle river and treated, and from there taken to his home at Minneapolis. There are grave doubts as to his recovery, too.

There were two other passengers on the coach, but neither of them was molested. They were William Paddon of 156 Washington street, Chicago, and Robert Rinlont, of Bank of Montreal, Chicago. The party was out on a fishing trip and was composed of wealthy men. A description of the robbers tallies to the letter with that of the daring free booter who went through a northwestern train near Ellis Junction. Sheriff Dave Faley, of Bessemer, a very determined man, organized a posse of a dozen men and has gone in hot pursuit. The chances of capture are very slim, but if such a thing as getting the highwaymen is possible, Faley will do it.

Construction Train Wrecked.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 27.—News has just been received in Lincoln that a construction train was wrecked late last Saturday night on the Burlington and Missouri railway near the Pine Ridge tunnel, about 350 miles northwest of this city. The train was running backwards, and two cars were thrown from the track by a plank. Eleven men were more or less injured, nearly all of the wounds consisting of broken legs and dislocated ankles. One or two of the injured men are thought to be in a serious condition. The road upon which the accident occurred is the Burlington extension from Lincoln to the Black Hills.

Factory Burned—Fireman Killed.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 27.—The building occupied by the Union Furniture company was burned, with its contents, Sunday night. The furniture company's loss is $100,000, half insured, and R. K. Tinker, owner of the building; loss $27,000, without insurance. Ralph Emerson, William Ward and Fireman Cavanaugh were knocked from the building by a hose, and fell forty feet. Emerson was killed, and the others injured.

Forest Fires in Washington.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 27.—This year forest fires are more extensive than usual and the amount of timber destroyed is almost beyond computation. The entire eastern slopes of the Cascade mountains, from Natchez pass north to the boundary, is reported to be in flames, having been started by a band of outlaws fleeing from the sheriff of O'Kanagan county, the fires being set to hinder pursuit.

The Police Were To Prompt.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., 27.—Frank Lewis, a circus faker, who has been employed as a hack driver, assulted a 7 year old girl here Saturday night. The child's cries aroused the neighbors, who rescued her, and would have lynched Lewis had it not been for the timely arrival of the patrol wagon. Lewis is now in jail. His victim was seriously injured.

Useless Ice.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 27.—The schoone Joseph Wilde with ice from Bangor, Me., bound for Richmond was sunk early this morning in a collision with the steamship Nessmore. The crew of the Wilde were rescued and landed at Fortress Monroe.

ANOTHER TRUST.

This One is Called the United States Glass Company.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The manufacturers of window glass, table glass and crockery have formed a "trust" called the United States Glass company. They have bought up ten of the principle plants in New York state and Ohio, but it is not believed that the western manufacturers will join the association. The new trust is really the beginning of a long fight between the old manufacturers, who are known as "the potmen" and the new men called "the tankmen" by reason of their introducing a new method of making glass in tanks instead of pots.

The new method is very expensive, and only one plant has been erected in this country, that at Jeannette, Pa. The men behind the new enterprise have issued circulars that they will furnish glass at a reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent below the price of the "potmen." This action would have resulted in the going under of many small firms if they had stood alone. So a trust was formed and inaugurates the beginning of a long fight.

MORMON ELDERS FLOGGED.

Three Polygamists Hung by the Thumbs and Whipped in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 27.—Three mormon elders named Engel, Taylor and Laired were severely whipped by regulators in Marion county Friday night. They had been proselyting in the county for sometime, and among their converts were two married women who left their homes and families to follow the elders. Thursday night a notice signed "regulator" was handed to the elders. It read: "If you are in this county to-morrow night you will be in hell next day."

The elders refused to leave, and the following night a band of men wearing masks took them into the woods, hung them up to trees by their thumbs and whipped them severely with switches. The women were warned that unless they returned to their families at once they would be treated the same way. There is no clew to the identity of the regulators.

ALLEE SAMEE MELICAN MAN.

Three Hundred Thousand Dollars Alleged to Have Stuck to His Fingers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—The Chronicle states that Leon Hang Tsang, Chinese consul general stationed in this city, is made defendant in a suit for an accounting in the United States court here, on complaint of Moy Bock Hing, contractor, from Portland, Ore.

The consul general had charge of the distribution of moneys paid by the United States government to recompense sufferers by the riot and fires at Rock Springs, Seattle, Eureka, Truckee, Redding and other points, amounting to $400,000. It is claimed that an unexpended balance of $300,000 is unaccounted for, and that the facts have been laid before the Emperor of China.

Cigarmakers Returning to Work.

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 27.—The strike of the cigarmakers is practically ended About 150 men mostly Americans will resume work. Without any concerted action by resolution or otherwise, these men are satisfied that the offer of Manager Gatto to pay off through a window, cut in the side of the stairway is all the concession that can reasonably be expected. The Cuban element among the workmen may hold out for another week, but it is thought all will be at work by Sept. 1.

Resisting Arrest to Their Sorrow.

TUSCUMBIA, Aug. 27.—While Marshal Gibson was trying to arrest Charles and Dayton Womble, the brothers drew their revolvers and began firing at him. Gibson returned the fire, killing Dayton Womble and seriously wounding Charles in the shoulder. The marshal was unhurt.

Water Damages.

MEDINA, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The damage by the break in the canal bank at Shelby's is now estimated at over $50,000 One quarry owner estimates his loss at $10,000 to bridges and basin. Between the break and the lake much land is flooded and bridges are swept away. A steam canal boat loaded with resin was caught and wedged across the canal and will probably break in two. There is danger of the water undermining the New York Central tracks. Superintendent Servoss and a gang of men are trying to stop the leak.

THE Akron Telegram remarks that "we have a large exchange list but the paper with turned column rules in mourning for the death of Judge Terry has not yet reached us."

UPON hearing that an Ohio woman was arrested for swearing, the Chicago News pointedly remarked that "a large majority of the male population of the state, however, is still at large."

A SPECIES of hazing was administered to a minister at Atlantic City, that, though rough, we doubt if it was seriously objected to. The saintly brother undertook to show four fair damsels the errors of their ways in bathing, and the aforesaid damsels settled the question by throwing him into the surf, ducking him thoroughly and then rolling him on the beach to dry.

THE cigarette manufacturer who purloins photographs of respectable people for advertising purposes is getting to be a bigger nuisance than the smoker. Secretary Halford's daughter is the latest victim to this abominable practice, and the modest young lady's portrait is devoted to advertising rocky cigarettes, much to the disgust of the victim and her parents.

Armatures for Dynamos.

The most difficult and important part of the structure is the armature, and in building this the first thing is the laminated iron core. For this purpose an immense number of thin disks of sheet iron are cut out, each having a central hole to admit the shaft, and several other holes for the bolts which are to hold the series of disks together, so as to make of them a solid drum. These disks are then piled one upon another around an iron shaft which is to form the axle of the armature, and thick iron end plates are applied at each end and bolted together by iron bolts going through from end to end. The drum or cylinder thus formed is then mounted in a lathe and turned to a smooth surface, except for such projections as may be left for guides in winding on the copper wires.

This is the next operation to be performed: The workman draws the insulated copper wire down from a drum overhead and passes it lengthwise around the armature core, which is supported by its axis in a lathe, while another workman assists him in pressing the wire accurately into place and keeping it close to the core. This wire is not wound on continuously, but in a number of short sections whose ends stick out somewhat irregularly. These ends are to be attached to the successive sections of the commutator. The numerous radiating lines at the nearer end of the drum are parts of the commutator sections, which are attached at their outer ends to the successive coils of wire on the armature. At their nearer ends these radical bars bend at right angles, so as to pass along the surface of the shaft, being insulated from it and from each other by mica or other appropriate substance.—Henry Morton in Scribner's.

C. and A. Excursion Rates.

On Sept. 10 and 24 and Oct. 8, 1889, the Chicago and Atlantic road will sell round trip tickets at one limited first-class fare for the round trip, to all points in Arkansas, Southern Missouri, beyond and including Butler, Clinton and Springfield, except that tickets shall not be sold to Missouri River points in any case, to Texas, Indian Territory, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Arizona and Dakota; to Nebraska and Kansas, except Missouri River points, to all points in Northwestern Iowa, west of Iowa Falls, Webster City, Wall Lake, Sioux City, Mason City and Sumner; to all points in Minnesota, west of Sleepy Eye, Winnebago City, Olivia, Lake Crystal, Belgrade, Morton, Little Falls and Wilmar. Tickets to be limited thirty days from day of sale.

Damage Caused from a Bursting Sewer.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 27. The bursting of a sewer, due to recent heavy rains, caused damage in the Fifteenth and Twenty-ninth wards, estimated at $100,000. Streets were torn up and washed out, cellars flooded, foundations and walls weakened and shattered, and stocks of goods ruined. Many persons narrowly escaped drowning and the inhabitants of the district are fearful of further disaster.

A Duty to Yourself.

It is surprising that people will use a common ordinary pill when they can secure a valuable English one for the same money. Dr. Acker's English pills are a positive cure for sick-headache and all liver troubles. They are small, sweet, easily taken and do not gripe. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co.

Louse's Red Clover Pile Remedy.

is a positive specific for all forms of the disease. Blind, Bleeding, Itching, Ulcerated, and Protruding Piles.—Price 50c.

Sold in Marion, O., by W. B. Foye, Druggist.

Elijah Lybarger, prominent Milwood citizen, shot at his daughter Daisy, Sunday night, but missed. He then shot his wife and put a bullet into his own brain. Both dying Jealousy the cause.

Caution to Mothers.

Every mother is cautioned against giving her child laudanum or paregoric; it creates an unnatural craving for stimulants which kills the mind or the child. Acker's Baby Soother is specially prepared to benefit children and cure their pains. It is harmless and contains no Opium or Morphine. Sold by H. C. Hoberman & Co.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

The Duke of Fife has an income of $300,000 from land alone.

Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, smokes twenty cigars a day.

Rev. T. De Witt Talmage has a brother who is a missionary in China.

In the last two years the Duke of Portland has won more than £66,000, or about $330,000, on the races.

A New England delver has discovered that President Harrison is descended from an Ipswich minister.

Senator Evarts, it is stated, is going to Europe for treatment for his eyes, which are troubling him much.

Rider Haggard will go to Assyria to study the topography of the country for his new story, "Queen Esther."

The Greek patriarch of Alexandria, Mgr. Sophronius, is 90 years old and has been a priest for seventy years.

The Hon. Redfield Proctor, secretary of war, has purchased a handsome estate on Marblehead Neck, Mass.

Paul Bourget is the last French novelist to try his hand at the drama. He is writing a play together with M. Meilhac.

Boulanger is a life member of the Canadian Society of St. John the Baptist, and is popular among the French population.

Baron Hirsch has been blackballed at the Paris Jockey club, although his proposer and seconder were popular men.

A. W. Ankeny, of Wheeling, has a tin plate which, it is said, belonged to George Washington when the latter was a soldier.

The approaching retirement of Lord Lytton from the post of British ambassador at Paris is attracting a good deal of attention.

Mr. Henry Shaw, the founder of the celebrated botanical gardens in St. Louis, has just commemorated his 89th birthday.

Richard Henry Stoddard has abandoned literary labors. In this he now resembles Shakespeare, Milton and Mother Goose.

Joaquin Miller has become a rich man. Some years ago he bought 200 acres near Oakland, Cal. They are to be taken now for town lots.

John K. Davis, of Cleveland, O., has the smallest hand of any man in the country. He wears gloves which would be too small for a girl of 10.

Sir Charles Dilke has entirely rewritten his work on "Greater Britain," and the new edition will shortly be published by the Messrs Macmillan.

Thomas A. Edison contemplates a long trip to the countries of the East. He has worked very hard for a good many years and he feels entitled to a vacation.

Pierre Lorillard has a scheme to cover Jerome park with glass and light the interior by electricity so as to allow racing in winter. He figures the cost at $200,000.

Since the Bishop of Ripon's response at the dinner of the Artists' Benevolent society, artists may regard themselves as the "pictures of the passions," and act as the "sunbeam of life."

Mr. Morgan Grace, M. D., brother of ex Mayor Grace, of New York, and member of the upper house at Wellington, New Zealand, has been nominated by the pope count of the Holy Roman empire.

The Rev. Charles Ray Palmer is to represent Yale university at the dedication of the new Congregational college, at Oxford, England, from Oct. 14 to 16. He will preach in the new college chapel.

The heirs of the brothers William F. and George W. Norton, deceased millionaires, of Louisville, Ky., have decided to give $60,000 to the building fund of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary of that city.

George Buckel, a Louisville inventor, is to the fore with a mysterious vacuum bed, which will cure all pain, and a triple motor to travel with equal celerity, ease and economy on land or water or in the air.

Mr. Gladstone, on the occasion of his golden wedding, is reported to have said that he had solved the domestic problem in this way, "Whenever Mrs. Gladstone insists I submit, and whenever I insist, she submits."

The lectureship in English literature at Trinity college, Cambridge, recently vacated by Mr. Edmund Gosse, has been conferred on Mr. John Wesley Hales, professor of English literature at King's college, London.

It is stated that Sir Morell Mackenzie has decided to set apart a portion of his autumn holiday for the preparation of a work to be entitled "Six Months' Residence at the Court of the Crown Prince and the German Emperor."

Dr. Schlieman, the noted explorer, has returned to Berlin, where he owns a beautiful house, to remain some time. It is his intention to arrange the fruits of his excavations in Egypt which he has presented to the Royal museum.

Senator Cameron is strongly in favor of enlarging the president's house at Washington, or building a new one. But he would not have the present White House, with its illustrious historical associations, removed or demolished.

Ex Vice President Hannibal Hamlin, although 81 years old, spends a great deal of his time out doors, working in his orchard and flower garden or taking long walks. He is said to be still good for ten or fifteen miles a day on foot.

A. D. Johnson, of Waterford, Pa., possesses a literary relic in the shape of "Fruits of Solitude in Reflections and Maxims Relating to the Conduct of Human Life," by William Penn, founder of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Charles Theodore, duke of Bavaria, the philanthropic physician, recently celebrated at Tegersee, in Bavaria, his removal of the thousandth cataract from the eyes of his poor patients. It was made the occasion of a great ovation.

The Turkish minister was sea sick during the yachting cruise in which President Harrison indulged at Bar Harbor. Somebody remarked to him that they hoped the internal relations of Turkey were peaceful, where upon he groaned aloud.

Baron Ferdinand Rothschild's latest acquisition for the picture gallery at Waddesdon Manor is the famous portrait of Mrs. Sheridan, by Sir Joshua Reynolds, which he has bought from Lord Lansdowne, who has recently sold several pictures out of the Bowood collection.

Buffalo Bill must be a happy man, for the shah has conferred upon him and one or two members of his show the order of the Great Peacock. His majesty seems to have been especially pleased with the shooting, and is said to have offered Miss Annie Oakley an engagement to teach the girls he left behind him in his harem how to shoot.

Charles Newman, of Albany, went out on Raquette lake and caught, with a rod and reel, thirty-five pounds of black bass. The next day he caught thirty-three pounds. On Monday he caught a lake trout weighing fifteen and three quarter pounds. It measured thirty-two inches in length and nineteen and a quarter inches around belly or breast.

THE ANIMAL KINGDOM.

At Huntsville, Ala., a pink and white chicken was hatched a short time ago.

A society lady of East Liverpool, O., puts her pet poodle dog's hair up in curls papers every night.

A Middletown, Del., duck mingles with chickens and endeavors to conceal its identity by making attempts at crowing.

Henry Wilson, of Jefferson county, O., has a cow that is 7 years old and weighs less than 200 pounds. The animal is about 3½ feet high.

A small boy killed a blue racer at Benton Harbor, Mich., the other day by cutting off his head with a hatchet. The snake was fully six feet in length.

Two ten foot black snakes were killed at Sawmill Run, Ligonier township, Westmoreland county, Pa., recently, by Candas Mershon and George Zeltner.

A farmer in Belmont county, O., states that a woodchuck and a black snake inhabit the same hole in his clover lot and are apparently on the best of terms.

A live toad imbedded in a seam of coal, has been found in a north of England mine. The creature has no mouth, but appears to live upon air. It is three inches long and can hop and crawl freely.

Capt. Haskell, of San Francisco, recently witnessed a terrific battle between a sword fish and a whale in the harbor of San Francisco. The sword fish was finally victorious, killing the whale.

There is a fish pond at Delano, Cal., which is supplied from an artesian well. The fish are spurted out every day and belong to the same species as those at Owens lake, on the other side of the coast range.

The gymnotus, or electrical eel, is common in the tributaries of the Orinoco, and is generally captured by causing the fish to expend their shocks upon horses driven into the stream until exhausted, when they become an easy prey.

Mrs. Jacob Pearce, of Hawkinsville, Ga., bought a hen from a chicken trader. The hen was killed for dinner recently, and in the gizzard of the fowl were found twenty-seven brass pistol cartridge balls, six buttons and a piece of lead.

Catching frogs to sell them to restaurants is a brisk industry around Chambersburg, Pa. The hunter carries a torch which he flashes on the stream, and if a frog is there it sits dazed, and with a dexterous thrust of a spear he pins it.

The jawbone of a huge monster has been unearthed recently at the Wauchula, Fla., phosphate beds. It measures eighteen inches in length and about seven in width. Some of the teeth are six or seven inches long and two or three inches in diameter.

At Sylvania, Ga., recently, Frank McCrimmon found a turkey nest on which an old gobbler was sitting. On examination he found that the nest was filled, not with eggs, but with apples. Mr. McCrimmon has found it a difficult matter to undeceive the gobbler.

A crab that climbs cocoanut trees is the birgo latis, or robber crab, of the Fanning Island. It cracks the nuts with its claws and waxes fat on the milky elixir found therein. A fine specimen has recently been added to the shell fish collection in the State museum of California.

A lad by the name of John Devan, while picking "huckleberries" near Uniontown, Pa., recently, was treed by a rattlesnake, which coiled itself at the foot of the tree and contentedly awaited the boy's descent. His outcries attracted some persons to the spot and the reptile was killed.

All the birds of the swallow kind fly high at the advent of or during fine weather, and low before a storm. These facts are accounted for by another. When the weather is calm, the ephemera upon which the swallows feed fly high in air, but just above the earth or water if it be rough.

An alligator and an English sparrow engaged in a battle near Darien, Ga., recently. The 'gator provoked the fight by snapping at the bird, which in turn flew furiously at its ugly antagonist, aiming with precision at the saurian's eyes. The 'gator finally gave up the contest and took to the river.

For several years there was a standing offer of $10 for a partridge nest containing more than twelve eggs, the records at the Smithsonian Institution giving that as the greatest number of eggs of that species to a nest. A party of Worcester girls recently won the money by finding a nest with fifteen eggs.

John N. Boyer, of Straban township, Adams county, Pa., has a hen that made a nest in the branches of a large oak tree near his building and hatched out a brood of young chickens. The nest was about thirty-five feet from the ground and Mr. B. had to use a ladder to get the young chicks from the nest.

It is affirmed that the large quantities of snails which appear in the chalk pastures after rain, and which are devoured by the sheep along with the short sweet herbage on which both feed, have a considerable share in imparting that peculiar flavor to which South Down mutton owes so much of its celebrity.

A trotting horse was sold in New York recently for $3,750 which couldn't make a mile in five minutes. It is considered a valuable horse, because it can trot at all under the circumstances. It was born with only three legs, but has made the most of its limited facilities, and is the only three-legged trotter in the country.

Tom Fuller, of Geneva, Ga., says that he saw a rabbit whip and kill a snake. The snake had caught a young rabbit and was trying to swallow it. The old rabbit rushed by the snake and bit at it as it passed. It then ran by the snake again and bit it, and repeated the run several times, biting the snake each time. The snake finally dropped the young rabbit, crawled off a short distance and died.

Albert Bechtel, of Akron, while fishing at Turkeyfoot lake, had a rather peculiar experience. After catching several blue gills his supply of bait became exhausted, and, taking a piece of chewing gum, he rolled it into an oval wad and stuck it upon the naked fish hook near the top. He threw in the line and was struck speechless to see it snapped up by a bass weighing about three pounds, which he succeeded in landing safely.

Some boys of New Wilmington, Pa., chased a rabbit into a hollow log. In getting the rabbit out they came across a sheep, the property of R. A. Crawford. The sheep is supposed to have backed into the log and could not extricate itself. It had been lost from the flock about a week, and in all probability had been confined there that time. From the end of the log to where it was cut out was fifteen feet. What induced it to back into the log is not known.

The floods of this summer have shown how great a protection against the inroads of water a row of willow trees may be. The engineer in charge of the Potomac river improvements says that where willows were planted the bank was protected from washing, and practically no damage was done, while in the improved land not so protected there was great loss.

THE BLUE GRASS REGION.

ITS GLORY SUNG BY COL. GOODLOE, OF KENTUCKY.

How the Breeder of Fine Blooded Horses Lives and Enjoys His Life as a Gentleman Should—Some Interesting Information About Breeding.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—"Come up stairs with me," said First Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson at Chamberlin's the other day, "and I will show you a splendid specimen of the Kentucky gentleman. Like the Kentucky horse which he loves so well, this gentleman is thoroughbred. He has all the strains and qualities of the racer, which you will understand when I tell you that the blood of the Clays flows in his veins. Col. Goodloe, of whom I speak, lives in the outskirts of Lexington. There he has the most beautiful home I ever saw. The grounds are filled with all the trees and flowering shrubs that will grow in that latitude and soil, and their name is legion. The drives, walks and paths wind in and out. The house, built many years ago by a rich Englishman, has all modern conveniences combined with true Kentucky homelikeness. Broad, arched galleries run around the house, the floors of these being beautifully tiled. The hospitality dispensed here is fairly princely.

"I speak of this because it is a type of the hospitality which all that region of Kentucky delights in. Down there everything is dropped for a dinner party. If there are visitors a dinner is given every day. Guests are brought from Louisville, from Cincinnati, from even more distant towns. The Kentuckian who will not let business take care of itself, pack his dress coat into a valise and board the cars to go to a dinner party is not worthy the name of Kentucky gentleman. As soon as one host gets through with a visitor others are crying for him. They take him from house to house, from dinner party to dinner party. The Blue Grass region of Kentucky is an emerald on the bosom of one of the fairest states in the Union. The people who live there take more real enjoyment out of life than any other people in the world of whom I know anything. I know of no spot in which I would rather live. Take the home of Col. Goodloe, for example. When you wake in the morning there is a colored man to help you dress, to polish your boots, to supply your every want. All day long it is the same. Wherever you turn there is a colored servant to attend you, and they are, when properly trained, the best servants in the world. Many of these were formerly slaves, who could not be induced to leave the old place. Col. Goodloe keeps four times as many servants as he needs, simply because he does not like to drive them away. Around the house are the thoroughbreds, grazing and playing like pet dogs. Col. Goodloe has four daughters, each as beautiful as a dream and every one a horsewoman of skill and daring. In Kentucky the women know horses almost as well as the men, and love them even better. The visitor who does not take the precaution to conceal his ignorance of the horse must expect to have a good deal of fun poked at him by pretty and mischievous girls, as Col. Dudley discovered when he spoke one day of 'the hind knees of a horse.' But if you want to hear about Kentucky and Kentucky horses, come and see Col. Goodloe."

A handsome, cultured gentleman is Col. Goodloe, one you'd like for a host, a friend, an adviser, or a second in a duel or any other enterprise requiring courage, firmness and loyalty. He is a good business man, knows politics, can tell a story, make a speech or lead the german, but he would rather talk horse than do anything else in the world.

"The horse breeding industry in Kentucky," he says, "is almost entirely confined to the Blue Grass region. Traveling in the north and east I meet many men who have a mistaken notion of the extent of the Blue Grass country. Many think it covers half the state or more, but as a matter of fact it extends but twenty-five miles around Lexington. The borders describe a circle of irregular formation, but a circle, nevertheless, averaging fifty miles in diameter. I do not call this the garden spot of the world, nor do I say it is an emerald on the bosom of Kentucky, as my poetic friend Clarkson says, but I do often tell gentlemen there's but one place on the face of the globe where corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, timothy, clover, hemp, flax, potatoes, both Irish and sweet, and tobacco can be seen growing side by side, and that is in the Blue Grass region, and not only growing side by side, but growing in perfection in all the beauty and bountifulness of nature. The crop which gives name to our country is an indigenous crop. We do not have to sow blue grass, it need not be protected. The blue grass is hardy and persistent, and it runs out everything else. Left to itself a field of timothy or clover quickly becomes a field of blue grass. This famous grass is tall and thin of stalk, and very sweet. I have seen it three feet high, but with its tops lapping over. No hay is made of the blue grass. It is consumed entirely by grazing. There are several reasons for this. One is that it is a light crop in tonnage, no more than one-third or one-half that of timothy or clover. Another is that it is, next to clover, the most difficult grass to cure perfectly. Besides, the horses and cows get it all, even in winter digging under the snow for the last blade. In a favorable winter season the grass grows nicely down under the snow, and the horses nose it out in great delight and with much benefit to themselves."

"And it is this grass that gives to Kentucky her fame as a breeder of race horses?"

"It must be so. The results speak for themselves. Nearly all the great race horses in America trace their origin to Kentucky. The California breeders, who have great stables, started with Kentucky sires. So did the Montana breeders, and the Tennessee. The only exceptions to the rule are found in the case of a number of thoroughbreds bred directly from sires imported from England. There is a number of successful racers on the turf today bred from imported sires and native mares. This line of breeding usually produces excellent results, but it does not work well the other way. Breeding from imported mares has never been a success. So it may be said, speaking generally, that all the fleet race horses in the United States are, in one way or another, Kentucky product. Kentucky has the blood, which is occasionally crossed with good strains from England."

"How long has the breeding of race horses been going on in Kentucky?"

"I believe the first start was made by the importation of a few sires from England in 1820 or thereabouts, though it can hardly be said that breeding had fairly begun before 1835. The race course at Lexington, started in 1817, was the first one in the United States. The business was never in more prosperous condition. All the breeders in the Blue Grass region are making money and several of them have become very wealthy. The farmers of our part of the country are not like the majority of farmers elsewhere. They do no work themselves. If they like they sleep till 9 o'clock in the morning. Their chief duty is to ride around the farm and the stables to see how things are getting on. Many of them spend the summer in Europe or at the watering places. Nature has done so much for us and we are so fortunate in the breeding business that we do not have to work. Of this we do not boast, but are simply glad.

"Lexington is now the greatest horse market in the world. It beats even London in the value of its yearly sales. Nearly every farmer in the Blue Grass region breeds racers, trotters, Jerseys or ponies. Some farmers keep but three or four mares, some ten or a dozen, many from thirty to fifty, while a few great establishments, like that of D. S. Alexander, who bred Maud S., keep mares by the hundreds. If a breeder has fifteen mares or more it pays him to keep a stallion. A great stallion, father of many speedy, hardy youngsters who have shown their mettle on the track, is a gold mine in Kentucky. Several stallions I know of have sixty engagements in a year at $500 each. That is $30,000 in a year from one horse, whose keep and care cost but a few hundreds. Of course, there are many stallions whose fees are smaller, $300, $200, $100, and even down to $50, but it is the $500 horse that has his books most quickly filled."

"And how are the colts sold?"

"At public auction. Every May the breeders of the Blue Grass take their yearlings to Lexington. The sales have been advertised all over the country, and catalogues sent to all dealers in thoroughbreds. Horsemen come in by the hundreds and thousands from every part of the United States. According to programme the yearlings of one breeder are put up one day, and those of another the day following. In the case of two or three smaller breeders, their colts are put up the same day. During these sales Lexington is fairly given over to horses. Nothing else is talked of. The yearlings are brought out in front of a big stable where the auctioneer and crowd are. It is a rule among the breeders to sell every colt offered, no matter what is bid. Sometimes colts go at such low prices as to make one fairly groan.

"Two or three years ago I let a colt go at $180, though I knew he was worth five times that sum. As a 2-year-old he sold for $3,000, and as a 3-year-old brought $9,000. The average price of yearlings at these sales varies from $700 to $1,200. Certain stables have done as well as $2,000 some years, on account of the great success of their colts on the turf during the previous year. That is what makes or unmakes a breeder—the performance of his product on the track.

"Buying yearling colts is somewhat like a lottery, with the difference that you know you are getting something of intrinsic value. The man who comes into Kentucky to buy horses need not be an expert horseman in order to avoid being swindled. Pedigrees are as trustworthy as notes on the Bank of England. It has happened in the past that unprincipled men sold horses for which they made false claims, but these men were ostracized, denounced, disgraced. No man that will deal in fictitious pedigrees, or pedigrees that are in any way fraudulent, can hold his head up in Kentucky. I speak of the purchase of yearlings as resembling a lottery because one can never tell whether he is buying a prize or a failure. Many of the highest priced yearlings turn out badly, while many of the cheap colts, scrawny and weak, make the greatest of race horses. Majesty cost $825 as a yearling, and her winnings on the turf, I believe, are as great as $50,000. Corrigan paid but $425 for Lizzie Dwyer, and she has won $25,000 in stakes. The Billet filly, Wanda, which cost only $375 as a yearling, won $7,225 as a 2-year old. Parole was sold for $780 as a yearling and won $85,000. Thus it goes."

"Why is it that so few Kentuckians own racing stables?"

"There is more money in breeding, more certainty and less that is annoying and unpleasant. Very few Kentuckians race their horses, and I know gentlemen, breeders of as fine thoroughbreds as ever ate blue grass, who have not been to a horse race for years. Nor is it true that Kentuckians are fond of betting on horse races. Their admiration for a horse does not find expression chiefly in the size of the wagers they make in the books, as is too often the case with men who have less to do with racers and know infinitely less of them."

"What is your opinion of the comparative merits of English and American race horses?"

"The English are great breeders and great trainers. They do not crowd their horses as hard, yearlings and 2-year-olds, as our stable owners do. In this country too many horses are kept to a razor's edge from colthood up. In comparing English with American racers it must be borne in mind that the methods are entirely different. As a rule they run longer distances than we do; their courses are not always level, and are often of turf. They do not keep time as we do, either. These facts make it very difficult to compare records and merits. But I venture this assertion, that if twenty English horses were to come over here to compete in our races, and twenty American horses were to be sent over there to compete in theirs, the American horses would win a larger percentage of the events they started in than the English horses would be able to win here."

"Are white men usually employed to handle thoroughbreds?"

"The Kentucky thoroughbred is reared literally by the hand of the negro. Perhaps we could raise great horses without the colored men, but I doubt it. The negroes take charge of them from foal to the moment they are put on the cars to be shipped away. They alone feed, rub and care for stallions, mares and colts. White men are often employed as trainers and on the large farms as superintendents, but only negroes touch the horses or enter their stalls. The negro is like his employer in that he loves the thoroughbred next to his wife and children. They have remarkable control of horses. Often vicious animals from the north are sent down to Kentucky to be handled by our negro grooms. I remember one ugly brute in whose stall no man had been for a year without a club in his hand. In a week one of my colored men would go into this animal's stall and crawl between his legs. Our colored people are the most faithful and loyal servants in the world. Race horses worth tens of thousands of dollars are left in the sole charge of black grooms. My entire farm and stables, including several very valuable horses—one of them I refused $14,000 for—is in charge of a black man. If there was a million dollars there, and he had the key to the safe in which it was kept, I would feel no uneasiness."

A New Mastic.

A new mastic, the discovery of a French engineer, is now not only largely employed in France, but is exported in considerable quantities, especially to eastern countries. The product, which it is asserted is practically indestructible, is composed of linseed oil mixed with ninety-three parts of powdered brick and seven parts of litharge, the brick and the litharge being pulverized separately, then well mixed and reduced to a paste by means of the oil. The object to which the mastic has to be applied should first be dampened with a sponge. After application—in say about three or four days—the coating becomes perfectly hard and will effectually prevent the filtration of water in terraces, basins and masonry in general.—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.

INVIGORATING and appetizing if taken cold before eating in the morning. It tones up the system, settles a disordered stomach. A gentle, but sure cathartic. If a matitudinal cocktail must be indulged in, it will counteract its bad effects as to stomach and brain. An absolute and sure preventitive of sea sickness. Its components are closely allied to the gastric juices of the stomach.

An Antidote to Intoxicants.

IF taken regularly, fresh and cold, three times a day, before each meal, it will put the stomach in such a shape that the necessity for stimulants will not be felt, and excessive desire can be toned down to simple moderation. I shall keep Clam Juice constantly on hand to be served FREE, hot or cold, to my customers. Knowing positively from experience that it will do all that is claimed for it above, I will try in every way to promote its use, as it is not my wish to encourage excessive drinking, and if I can discourage it by giving away freely the only known antidote I will only be too glad to do so.

AMERICAN GIRLS WHO ACHIEVE FAME ON THE OTHER SIDE.

A Visit to a Famous Vocal Instructress in Paris—Miss Eames as Juliet and Her Great Success—Miss Sibyl Sanderson and Miss Sylvania.

[Special Correspondence.]

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The American girl in painting has been outdone abroad by her sister in song. Ubiquitous, versatile, ambitious, she beams upon her fellow countrymen from the great operatic and concert stages of the world.

"I have high hopes, great faith in American girls in song," said Mme. Marchesi, the famous vocal instructress of Paris. "They are doing splendidly. Their voices have good quality; then they are hard workers. Oh, I expect great things of American singers," and madame glanced affectionately at the walls of her music room, from which smile the well known faces of Mlle. Nevada, Albani, Van Zandt, Maria Decca (singing with Mapleson in England), Mlle. Elliott, Mrs. Stoddard and a host of singers who proudly claim America as their home.

"Look at Miss Eames," said madame, turning to the picture of the beautiful impersonator of Gounod's Juliet, which occupies the post of honor on the mantel of the historic music room. "Her success is wonderful—marvelous." The kindly eyes of the eminent Italian woman glowed with the pride of the successful teacher, and seating herself on a divan in the splendid salon of her beautiful home on Rue Jouffroy, she lived over again the glories of her departed youth in the anticipated triumphs of her American pupils.

"Look at Miss Eames," repeated madame. "Her success is wonderful, marvelous. She stepped from this room, I may say, on to the stage of the Grand Opera of Paris, and swept everything before her. Her triumph was brilliant—great!" Mme. Marchesi's music room is off the salon, rich in treasures of art. It is lighted by a skylight, under which is a platform and music stand. A grand piano, a library of musical manuscripts, bric-a-brac and Oriental hangings complete its furnishing. The hard finished oak floor is in nature's own dress, and, with the portraits of the gifted women of song, many in the costumes of the roles in which they have achieved fame, Mme. Marchesi's music room is an ideal haunt of Apollo. "Miss Eames was never behind the scenes of a theatre until she began the rehearsal of 'Romeo and Juliet,'" continued madame. "But—ah—you would think she had trod it all her life. Such ease, such grace—it was wonderful. But then," smiled madame, "American girls can do everything—their resources are endless."

The subject of Mme. Marchesi's rhapsodies is the reigning prima donna of Paris grand opera. Since her debut last March she has charmed thousands of her visiting countrymen, who went to the Grand Opera house chiefly to admire its adornments, little dreaming they would meet in the queen of its stage a daughter of the stars and stripes. Miss Eames is the daughter of a Boston barrister. She was born in China. When 5 years old she was taken to America, where she led the studious, unpretentious life of New England girls until three years ago, when she came to Paris. Her voice and love of music she inherits from her father's family. Many members of the latter are above the average musical amateur. Miss Eames is the first of the family, however, to adopt music as a profession. Her love for the artistic was pronounced in earliest childhood. This, together with her pure, supple voice, induced her father, who was her first instructor, to let her try the perils of the stage. After two years' study and singing in choirs and concerts in Boston, she became the pupil of the eminent Mme. Marchesi.

Miss Eames is an indefatigable worker. She is devoted to her art. The year before her debut was spent in digesting and assimilating the valuable lessons received from her instructor. Miss Eames is but 21 years old. Tall, graceful, beautiful, she is the ideal Juliet. Gounod, the composer, taught her himself the entire role of Juliet in his great opera "Romeo and Juliet." Her success is one of the most remarkable in the long category of triumphs which have been achieved on the operatic stage of Paris. The day after her debut she received a telegram from Mr. Augustus Harris asking her to sing at Covent Garden,

SIBYL SANDERSON AS ESCLARMONDE.

London. The price offered was very large, but her engagement at the Grand prevented her from accepting it. That a girl so young should master not only the intricacies of the music, but fluency of the French language sufficiently to win the bravas of critical Paris, is an achievement in which America may rejoice. There is no limit to which such genius may not soar. Now that fame is hers, French and American residents are solicitous in attentions, but she sacrifices social pleasures that would interfere with her study or the strength required for the exactions of her role. In a simple gown of white silk she was the cynosure of all eyes at Minister Reid's reception, and in classic draperies was much admired at Lady Lyons' (wife of the British minister) last garden party.

Scarcely had the eclat of Miss Eames' triumph settled into sturdy admiration when another American songstress—Miss Sibyl Sanderson—made her debut before a Parisian audience at the Opera Comique.

Miss Sanderson, as her picture indicates, is a beautiful woman. Her family name is not unknown to the Pacific coast. Born in Sacramento, her childhood passed in San Francisco. Her musical studies began in 1881 at the Paris conservatory, but were interrupted by the death of her father, to be resumed later under the tuition of Mme. Dugler, niece of Gounod. The opera, "Esclarmonde," in which Miss Sanderson made her debut on the evening of the 15th of May, was written for her by Massenet, the well known composer. Its success was instantaneous, and it continues to play to crowded houses. Seats are at a premium on Miss Sanderson's night. She sings three times a week. Unlike Miss Eames, the debut of Miss Sanderson was not her first operatic appearance. In 1888, at the Hague and Amsterdam, she sang in opera under the name of Ada Palmer. "I wanted to try my abilities under an assumed name," said the beautiful songstress, "before assuming my own."

It was not personal pride at the consequence of failure, but a touching devotion to the memory of her father's name, that prompted her to discard it until success was assured. It was a needless precaution, as the sequel proved. Her success partook of an ovation. It was telegraphed to Paris and her identity revealed. The path was now clear to her final debut at the Opera Comique.

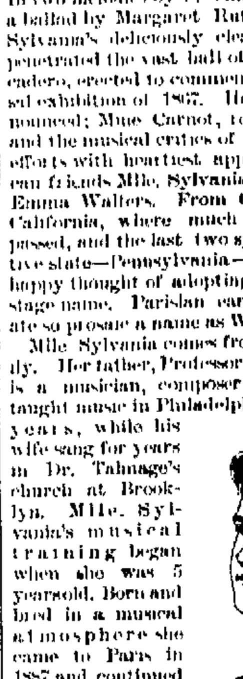

Gounod heard her sing and was delighted with her voice. Since the beloved Holber, who created the role of Manol, he said he had never heard a voice that pleased him so well. He wanted Miss Sanderson for Manol, but she had signed a contract for a year with the Opera Comique.

Miss Sanderson lives with her mother in beautiful apartments on Rue Lincoln, off the famous boulevard Champ Elysees.

The rules enforced at the opera houses of Paris are very strenuous. After the first night, to which the press and distinguished critics are invited, no complimentaries are issued. Not a ticket is given to the parents of the stars or a single attache of the company. A doctor's certificate alone releases a member from appearing on the nights assigned. One of the most grievous disappointments that has come to Miss Sanderson since the opening of her career was her inability (owing to the night) to be present and sing at the American minister's reception on the evening of the Fourth of July. The Sandersons number Mrs. Whitelaw Reid among their oldest friends.

Probably no event at the Paris exposition emphasized in so significant a manner the growth of the refining arts in the United States as the American composers' concert given at the Trocadero in July. It was a fitting time and place for the debut of Mme. Marchesi's latest lyric star—Mlle. Sylvania. In two melodies by F. Van der Stucken, and a ballad by Margaret Ruthven Lang, Mlle. Sylvania's deliciously clear, vibrant voice penetrated the vast hall of the historic Trocadero, erected to commemorate the Universal exhibition of 1867. Her success was pronounced; Mme. Carnot, resident Americans and the musical critics of Paris awarded her efforts with heartiest applause. To American friends Mlle. Sylvania is known as Miss Emma Walters. From the sylvan vales of California, where much of her childhood passed, and the last two syllables of her native state—Pennsylvania—she conceived the happy thought of adopting Sylvania as her stage name. Parisian ears would not tolerate so prosaic a name as Walters.

Mlle. Sylvania comes from a musical family. Her father, Professor B. Frank Walters, is a musician, composer and writer. He taught music in Philadelphia for twenty-five years, while his wife sang for years in Dr. Talmage's church at Brooklyn. Mlle. Sylvania's musical training began when she was 5 years old. Born and bred in a musical atmosphere she came to Paris in 1887 and continued her studies under Mme. La Grange, a favorite teacher of American aspirants. Finally she became the pupil of Marchesi, who speaks in highest praise of her abilities to achieve brilliant things on the operatic stage. Mlle. Sylvania is now prepared to sing opera in French or Italian. Like all Americans who reside in Paris for any time she prefers the French language. Engagements for next season are under consideration. Doubtless her operatic debut will be made next winter at Brussels. Mlle. Sylvania is not yet 20. To genius of song the gods have added winning girlish beauty, a vital requisite for the aspirant to public favor.

With erect, willowy figure, stately poised head, brown hair, sparkling dark eyes and face that mirrors every fleeting emotion, together with great musical and dramatic gifts, a brilliant future assuredly awaits Mlle. Sylvania. She lives in Paris with her father, who is her devoted attendant.

"I do not want to go back to America," said the young cantatrice, "until I have made a success in Paris. Then, oh then, I will go," and the dreams of ambitious youth shone in her sweet face at the anticipation of meeting the approbation of her countrymen.

The temptations besetting the young, the pretty, the ambitious girl who comes unprotected to Paris to pursue any career are almost overwhelming. The gifted, unprotected, in nine cases out of ten secures a dramatic, artistic or operatic engagement speedier than the sister aspirant who has the companionship of father, mother or brother. Managers' agents, as a rule, steer clear of young girls under masculine chaperonage. The price at which many a prima donna debut has been bought is too often the tragedy of sin and degradation. This awful truth is well known in professional circles and that portion of the public familiar with the craft. It is kept sub rosa. Nevertheless, it is a truth bound to come out sooner or later. The social customs of France are vastly different from those of America. The American girl is loth to believe this until the truth is thrust upon her by personal experience.

LIDA ROSE MCCABE.

Helping His Weak Voice.

Samuel Rogers had a very good heart and a very sharp tongue. He even took delight in saying disagreeable things. "They tell me," he once observed to Sir Henry Taylor, in his slow, quiet, deliberate way, "I have a very weak voice. If I did not say ill natured things, no one would hear what I said."—San Francisco Argonaut.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

A Few Trenchant Remarks from an Esteemed Contemporary.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Together with about twenty other gentlemen, we were sitting in front of the Crook house last Tuesday evening when the Tucson stage suddenly drove up, having unexpectedly arrived fifteen minutes ahead of time. One of the outside passengers had the appearance of a detective, and there was a sudden scatteration of loungers. It was laughable to see Col. Jones, Maj. Wickham, Judge Perdue, Professor Wise and others tumble over each other as they broke for the sage brush.

An unfortunate accident occurred in this connection. The Hon. Timothy Shooks, late of Indiana, probably believing that he had been sent for for barn burning, or horse stealing, fell over a bench in his hurry to abscond and broke his left leg, and it will probably be two months before he will be able to be about again.

A POSSIBLE MISTAKE.—Col. Keho Jones, who was pulled up to a limb by the boys the other night as a warning that no snide games will be allowed in any gambling house in this bailiwick, has called at The Kicker office to protest that we were mistaken in the way we sized him up in our local columns. He showed us letters of recommendation from prominent parties in Washington, Philadelphia and New York, and he exhibited the Testament given him by his mother twenty-three years ago and worn over his heart ever since.

We may possibly have been mistaken in writing the gentleman up as a forger, embezzler, bigamist and escaped convict, and in encouraging the boys to pull his neck as a warning. If so, we are very sorry. The only way he can satisfy us of his integrity is to frown upon anything like a skin game in his establishment in future.

SOLE AGENT.—We have been appointed sole agent in this town for the Kentucky Hemp company, limited, and will be the only one handling their famous "No. 6" rope. This rope, as most of our readers are aware, is made for and exclusively used as neckties for bad men. It will stand the greatest strain, run easier, fit tighter, and give more general satisfaction than any other hanging rope in the market. No matter what sort of a neck a man has, this rope settles to the right spot at once. We sell it in twenty foot lengths at $2 per length, and where more is wanted the price will be made satisfactory. Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

THERE IS ONE.—In answer to "Correspondent" last week, who asked if there was a railroad line running through this town, we replied that if such a line existed we had never heard of it in the two years of our stay. We now desire to inform him that there is a line—a branch of the U. P. road—and that it runs two trains per day and gives excellent service.

The manager of the line, Mr. Ben Davis, called at our office yesterday and handed us an annual pass over the line, and we take pleasure in saying that the cars are of the best make, the fare reasonable and that the line has done much to build up our town.

NOT YET.—We have often been asked why we did not establish a Daily Kicker, and many individuals have promised us their hearty support. In the first place we are now running under one roof a great weekly newspaper, a harness shop, a grocery, a feed store and a great boot and shoe house, and we haven't much spare time, and in the second place when we have any money to throw away we'll do it by establishing a school of philosophy for Indians. We've got a good thing as it is, and we don't sigh for the whole earth.—Detroit Free Press.

He Gets There at Last.

Old Swineford—See here, my young man, why don't you get up and give one of those ladies a seat?

District Telegraph Boy (outraged)—Holy smoke! Why don't you git up an' give both of 'em seats?—Munsey's Weekly.

A Knock Out Blow.

Just above the hotel there is a bootblack's stand presided over by an Italian. On the first day of his arrival, a month ago, a Pennsylvanian took the chair for a shine, and in paying his dime and making change there was some mistake and a dispute as to five cents.

"I no helpa—no helpa!" protested the Italian, with many a shrug.

"Do you mean to swindle me out of that nickel?"

"I no helpa!"

"Hand over that nickel or I will take an awful revenge!"

"No helpa—no helpa."

The man had three friends at the hotel. He told them the story and they started up town together.

"See here, old Italy, let's figure a bit," said the spokesman as they halted at the stand. "Here are four of us. That's an average of at least five shines a day for the forty days we shall be here. Two hundred shines at ten cents apiece figures up just $20. You beat us out of a nickel and lost a saw buck. How much are you ahead?"

And the Italian stood there with his mouth open and his hair crawling up on end, and all he could say was:

"Wheel! Dat was one hossa on me, eh?"—Detroit Free Press.

He Could Afford It.

Mrs. Youngwife—John, dear, I want a new dress.

Mr. Younghusband—I can't afford it at present, my dear. I've got to get a new suit for myself.

Mrs. Y.—You're a mean thing, so there! You get a new suit for yourself, but none for me.

Mr. Y.—I can't afford both at once and my business requires that I should dress well, and——

Mrs. Y.—Yes, you dress well. There's Mr. Jones, our neighbor, you dress much better than he does an' he's in business, too.

Mr. Y.—Ah! my dear, but he's a rich man and can afford to go shabbily.—Boston Courier.

Didn't Want the Experiment Tried.

Nearsighted Man (at dime museum, closely examining mummy)—May I ask——

Proprietor of Museum (hastily producing a revolver)—Get out ide that railing, sir! I'll shoot the first man that tries any of that darned Frenchman's elixir on that mummy!—Chicago Tribune.

LONG LIFE

There is nothing in the world more generally desired than long life, yet the majority of people put off caring for their health—not because they are really careless, but because we live our lives at such a pace we have not time to give the subject sufficient thought until we receive a reminder in the shape of a severe illness.

Then, too, we are constantly bewildered by the various schools of medicine, and the physicians who represent them, and often blunder in our choice of a doctor.

If people only knew that the very best health-keeper, life preserver, and disease-preventer that has yet been discovered, is simmered down into a concentrated and very palatable form in the shape of New Style Pleasant Taste Vinegar Bitters, they would not hesitate a moment to try it.

But they do not know. How can they know, when so many not only worthless, but positively injurious drugs are constantly flooding the market under various names guises, that the New Style Vinegar Bitters is as bad as any of them?

They do not know, of course, unless they have the courage to try the New Style. It straightens out a tangled-up system in a very short while, and those who buy it once buy it always.

Why don't you try it, reader? It is sent out by a responsible house, and is exactly as represented. It costs but a dollar for a very large bottle. Try it once and you will never be so glad of anything in your life. Your druggist may not have it, but he will order it for you. Be sure it says New Style Pleasant Taste on carton and bottle before you take it. Try it, and you will feel happier than if you had found a gold mine, for it really is a mine of health.

Free from alcohol and opium, composed of expensive herbs and roots with a fine, delicate flavoring.

—Miss Alice Edwards, assisted by her class, will give a social at City Hall, Friday evening of this week. A feature of the evening will be a rare program consisting of songs, recitations, etc. Cake and cream will be served. Admission 10 cents, cake and cream 15 cents. Let everybody come.

—W. and J. F. Prendergast received a consignment of a half million red cedar shingles Monday, from Tacoma, Wash., the shingles arriving in just thirteen days from the day of shipment. That comes pretty close to being good time—thirteen days for freight from the Pacific coast to Ohio.

Will Enlarge Its Works.

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Marion Manufacturing company, held Monday night, it was decided to enlarge the works by erecting the proposed new-building.

The management of that growing young concern found early this season that more room must be had in order to keep up with its rapidly growing business. Accordingly plans were drawn for a new brick building, one to extend along the entire east line of the company's property, reaching from the railroads to Center street. Monday night the plans were adopted and work will begin in time to complete yet this fall.

The new building, or rather series of buildings will be 530 feet long, and in width is 40, 41 and 50 feet. The portions used for foundry, for blacksmith shops, for erecting room and for boiler shops will be but one story, the balance two stories.

The building will border on the east line of the company's land and will not have an entrance on the east. The estimated cost of the new buildings is about $7500.

A Couple Cars Smashed.

The Bee Line had a slight wreck in this place Monday evening. A west-bound freight was slowly pulling down through the yard, and the caboose had only reached the crossing west of the Central school building, when the yard pony backed a string of cars into it at a lively rate. The collision made a report like an explosion, splintered the caboose of the freight train and threw an Armour meat car off the track and badly wrecked it. No one was hurt, because the caboose and its platform were empty.

The blame seems to be attached to the yard crew. The damages are not extensive.

The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effects and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

Household Goods for Sale.

I have a number of household goods which I will dispose of at private sale, during this week, very cheap for cash. Goods as good as new—purchased last spring. Inquire of J. F. Shertzer, on Cherry street, opposite Fred Issleib's residence. [245t2

THE PROGRESS OF WATERWORKS.

The Marion Plant Going Along Lively, in a Way that Insures an Early Completion—$25,000 Already Expended.

Marion has been so repeatedly disappointed in its expectation of waterworks during the past three seasons that bona fide evidences of an early completion of the works, under the Howland & Ellis franchise, will be received with no little joy. Such cheering evidences are at hand, and with a view of portraying the exact situation, the STAR visited the various points of operation, on Monday.

The reservoir is the point of liveliest and greatest interest. This great collecting and storage basin is to be 650 feet long, 400 feet wide at one end and 100 feet wide at the other, having a capacity of 150,000,000 gallons of water. It presents a busy scene. Sage & Littlejohn, the sub-contractors who are to excavate to the water level, have fifty teams at work with plows and scrapers, and about seventy-five men. They are pushing things lively in order to have reached the water level by the time the dredge is ready to go to work.

The scow was launched Sunday and is now receiving the dredge machinery at the hands of workmen from the Marion Steam Shovel company. It is to be ready to commence running next week, by which time a switch will have been extended from the C. and A. on which to load gravel cars from the pit.

East of the reservoir 850 feet is the pump well, at present in the shape of a crib, being put down by a force under Messrs. Howland & Ellis' foreman. It is to be a well 20 feet below the surface and of a clear diameter of 12 feet. With this well the pumps will be connected, and the well is to be supplied with water by a canal leading to it from the reservoir. The canal is 850 feet long, 50 feet wide at water level and 11 feet deep. The reader will readily observe that this immense conducting canal will add very largely to the storage capacity of the system.

The pump house will soon be under headway. It is to be 46x69, and built of brick and stone, with a 90 foot brick stack. It will contain two large boilers, with room for two more, two engines with room for an additional large one, two condensers, one boiler feed, heater, etc. Each pump is to have the capacity of 2,000,000 gallons daily.

At the standpipe site the stone masons are busy with the immense foundation for the standpipe, and have already completed the most tedious part of their work, having passed the surface level. This foundation is to extend 20 feet above the ground and is built of stone, laid in cement. At the base it is $37\frac{1}{2}$ feet, at the top $26\frac{1}{2}$ feet. The standpipe is to be 25 feet in diameter and 90 feet high, so that its complete elevation above the surface will be 110 feet.

Pipes, gates and hydrants are arriving daily, much of the stock having been unloaded and this distributed already. The large 16 inch pipe are already distributed along Rock Swale and other wet places on the line of the main, and will be laid within a short time.

A visitor to the reservoir will be surprised at the incidental work that has been done. After purchasing the Mehaffy land, Howland & Ellis purchased the right of way for three-quarters of a mile road leading to their works, and have fenced and graded the road nicely. This road is on a direct line of the Garden City pike extended.

Without counting the expense of pipes, gates, &c, purchased, over $25,000 have already been expended on the works, a fact that is ample evidence of good faith when work continues as it does.

The STAR's visit was made pleasant and interesting by Messrs. Howland & Ellis' right hand man, Engineer Henny, who is the guiding hand, and fully understands his business, and he is as pleasant a gentleman as he is competent an engineer.

Married.

HARIGER—WILLIAMS—On August 25, 1889, Mr. Sylvanus L. Hariger, of Ostrander, Delaware county, O., to Mrs. Lilly M. Williams, of LaRue, O.

The ceremony was performed at the residence of Nelson Walker, Sr., in Green Camp, by Rev. J. A. Sutton, and it was a quiet wedding in the presence of a few invited guests, followed by a splendid supper. Every one congratulates the happy pair.

On September the 10th and 24th and October 8th, 1889, the N. Y., L. E. and W. railroad will sell round trip tickets at one limited first class fare for the round trip to all points in Arkansas, southern Missouri, beyond and including Butler, Clinton and Springfield, except that tickets shall not be sold to Missouri river points in any case; to Texas, Indian territory, New Mexico, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Idaho, Arizona and Dakota; to Nebraska and Kansas, except Missouri river points; to all points in northwestern Iowa, west of Iowa Falls, Webster City, Wall Lake, Sioux City, Mason City and Sumner; to all points in Minnesota, west of Sleepy Eye, Winnebago City, Oliva, Lake Crystal, Belgrade, Morton, Little Falls and Wilmar. Tickets to be limited thirty days from day of sale.

The Mattress Factory.

William Smith, the mattress factory man, arrived in this city about two weeks ago from his former home at Winesberg, O., and immediately commenced to push the work of completing the buildings for the factory, which are being put up south of west South street.

Mr. Smith had been in business a considerable length of time at Winesberg and he comes here well recommended. He will conduct a wholesale and retail business, and guarantees satisfaction, and is no doubt worthy the patronage of our citizens.

He will leave for Cincinnati on Wednesday to procure a full stock of material, and will commence his business in good shape in a couple of weeks. Thus another is added to Marion's many thriving industries.

Home-Made Wines.

A. Ritzhaupt is prepared to deliver his famous home-made wines to any part of Marion. These wines are of his own make, are pure and are highly recommended by physicians for medicinal use. He has Catawba, Concord, Delaware, Elwely and other brands. Give them a trial. Call at his cellar at residence if you desire to select. [11-10]
